Form 1 (ED 3217 Course Drop from CAL Endorsement)

Curriculum Modification Summary

College: Human Ecology and Health Sciences / College of Arts and Sciences
Department: Professional Education / English
Proposer: Tim Goodwin
Proposer’s position: Chair – Professional Education

Describe the modification(s) you propose, and how it (/they) will work to students' advantage.
(This description and explanation will be included in Curriculum Report packets forwarded to the Faculty Senate.):

Removal of ED 3217: Curriculum Enrichment through Media Resources from the required course sequence for Elementary Education Majors seeking the Communication Arts and Literature Endorsement. After running the program for a few years, it has come to our attention that there is redundancy in two courses. In ED3208 Developmental Reading in Middle School (3 credits), media literacy is addressed in a more holistic setting. Because of the fieldwork, students are able to see the standards in a real life setting. ED3217 Curriculum Enrichment through Media Resources (3 credits) was listed as a secondary course for two standards found in ED3208 Developmental Reading in Middle School (3 credits). The Reading faculty believe that an entire course only addressing those two standards is not necessary for a middle level license. Those two standards are embedded in ED3208 Developmental Reading in Middle School (3 credits) and the task that addresses the two standards has already been approved. ED3217 Curriculum Enrichment through Media Resources (3 credits) is unnecessary for standard attainment. Removal of this course makes attainment of the Communication Arts & Literature endorsement more attainable for elementary education majors. Additionally, due to the narrow targeted audience for this course, maintaining sufficient enrollment to offer the course yearly is problematic.
