Policy Statement

In keeping with Article 4.8, Emeritus Status, of the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities Board Policy, “The award of emeritus status is intended as a special honor for system employees who have served with great distinction. Recognition as emeritus shall not be awarded as a matter of due course, and is granted only to those whose service has been most exemplary.”

To be awarded emeritus status at Bemidji State University, an employee must have:

a. 15 years of service to Bemidji State University;
b. Retired from the position at Bemidji State University for which emeritus status would be conferred (faculty/service faculty);
c. Established a record of distinguished and exemplary service while employed in the position; and
d. Completed employment in the position in good standing.

Scope and Purpose of Policy

The policy and procedures applies to faculty and service faculty in both the IFO and MSUAASF bargaining units who have served for 15 years with the university, and lays out the requirements and eligibility for emeritus status upon retirement.

Rationale

Bemidji State University wishes to recognize the exemplary service provided by its faculty and service faculty, and to maintain a connection with these employees by providing them with benefits and opportunities to engage on multiple levels with the university community.

Procedures

Individuals who are to be considered for emeritus status must meet the four criteria established within the emeritus status policy.

Nominations for emeritus appointment originate in the employee’s home department or administrative area. It is the responsibility of the department or administrative leader (chair, director, etc.) to nominate a retiring employee for emeritus status.

Nominations shall include evidence that demonstrates a record of outstanding achievement and distinguished service during the nominee’s career at the university. In the circumstance that a department or administrative leader is not supportive of a nomination, the retiring employee may request such a nomination from the dean, vice president or Executive Leadership Team administrator.
All nominations will be forwarded to the President, along with the required evidence in support of emeritus status from the dean/senior administrator. This should include a positive recommendation, a brief summary of career highlights and may include a copy of the CV.

Consideration for emeriti status will only be granted at the time of retirement.

The decision whether to grant emeriti status shall come from the President. In the event that emeritus status is not granted by the President, a faculty member may present additional information for consideration. However, the decision of the President is final.
