Are you familiar with Open Educational Resources (OER)?

- Very familiar, have used or reviewed several
- Somewhat familiar, have not yet used or reviewed
- Have heard of them but have not looked at them yet
- Vaguely aware there’s something called OER
- Never heard of it

Have you ever read an OER text?

- Yes
Do you teach any courses in which OER might be used?

- Yes
- No

In what type of course would you consider using an OER?

- A survey for non-majors
- An introductory course for majors
- An upper-level course that uses readings that are in the public domain
- I would not consider using an OER
Have you considered using an OER in a course? If so, what was the main motivation?

- Reducing cost to students
- Ease of adoption
- Flexibility and easy customization
- Quality of the text
- Other

If not, what is your most compelling concern?

- Not enough time to make a change
- The outside pressure to adopt OER is a turn-off
- Questionable quality of available texts
Haven't found the appropriate text for my course

Other

Is there a lot of variation in textbook cost between your courses?

Yes

No

If yes, what type of class is most expensive?

Do you teach any course in which textbook cost is $0?

Yes

No
How much do your students typically pay in the most expensive course you teach (assuming they buy new copies of all required texts)?

- $0 to $50
- $50 to $100
- $100 to $150
- $150 to $200
- Over $200
- None at all

How frequently do you revise your courses and consider adopting new textbooks?

- Annually
- Every couple of years
Has the cost of the textbook you are using changed significantly in recent years?

- No
- It has decreased in price
- It has increased slightly
- It has increased a lot

What percentage of your students do you believe avoid acquiring a required textbook?

- None
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Percentage Range</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A few (less than 10%)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10% to 25%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>25% to 50%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>More than half</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Do all the students who acquire the required textbook have it on the first day of class?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Availability</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>All</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nearly all</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Most</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Many seem delayed</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

How does the textbook content relate to other course content?
Do you switch to the latest edition of the textbook as soon as it becomes available?

| Yes                                    | No                                   |
---|---|

If so, why?

| Significant updates in a rapidly-changing field | Students like using latest edition with best graphics etc. |
Do you choose the textbooks in your courses?

- Yes, the decision is mine alone in all classes
- Partly; all instructors of multi-section courses choose the textbook together
- No, my department chooses textbooks
- No, this is the standard text in the field and everybody uses it
- Other

Do you adapt textbook content into lectures, assessments, discussion prompts?
Do you support efforts at BSU to reduce students' textbook expenses?

- Extremely
- Moderately
- I don't find it compelling
- I'm against it

Would you be interested in considering OER for any of your courses? (choose as many answers as apply)

- If someone helped me find acceptable texts
Would you like to be added to a mailing list or Team disseminating OER information?

- No
- Yes, here's my email address

Are you using OER content in any classes now?

- Yes
- No
Do you have any questions about copyright, fair use, or creative commons licensing that a certified expert in faculty or library could answer?

- Yes
- No

Would you like someone to contact you immediately to answer specific questions or talk about how to start working with OER?

- No thanks
- Yes, here's my email: [Text box]